

AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES
HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF PARIS

IMPORTANT

1. You know the Uniform Regulations.
2. You know the orders relative to saluting.
3. Failure to observe Uniform Regulations and the usual military courtesies may result in curtailing your stay in Paris or in disciplinary measures.
4. Look upon the Military Police as your friends. Ask them for information relative to railway and other stations.
5. The Military Police are required to be courteous and discourtesy on their part should be reported to the Provost Marshal, No. 10 Rue St. Anne.
6. Remember that the Military Police speak with authority from the Commanding General. The Military Police are required to perform certain duties that involve, at times, the questioning of officers. The Military Police are entitled to the same courteous treatment that they are required to accord others. The Military Police are ordered to report instances where they are not accorded such treatment.
7. The Military Police have been ordered to take the names and report all ranks, including Militarized Civilians, who permit themselves to be solicited on the streets.
8. The Provost Marshal has been directed to provide a place where slovenly dressed officers and enlisted men may be taken for the purpose of cleaning themselves. They will be detained until this has been accomplished.

By command of Brigadier-General Harris:
L. S. EDWARDS,
Adjutant General.

C. P. P. A. E. F.—3741—4-21-19—300M

AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES
HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF PARIS

IMPORTANT

1. You know the Uniform Regulations.
2. You know the orders relative to saluting.
3. Failure to observe Uniform Regulations and the usual military courtesies may result in curtailing your stay in Paris or in disciplinary measures.
4. Look upon the Military Police as your friends. Ask them for information relative to railway and other stations.
5. The Military Police are required to be courteous and discourtesy on their part should be reported to the Provost Marshal, No. 10 Rue St. Anne.
6. Remember that the Military Police speak with authority from the Commanding General. The Military Police are required to perform certain duties that involve, at times, the questioning of officers. The Military Police are entitled to the same courteous treatment that they are required to accord others. The Military Police are ordered to report instances where they are not accorded such treatment.
7. The Military Police have been ordered to take the names and report all ranks, including Militarized Civilians, who permit themselves to be solicited on the streets.
8. The Provost Marshal has been directed to provide a place where slovenly dressed officers and enlisted men may be taken for the purpose of cleaning themselves. They will be detained until this has been accomplished.

By command of Brigadier-General Harris:
L. S. EDWARDS,
Adjutant General.

C. P. P. A. E. F.—3741—4-21-19—300M

AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES
HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF PARIS

IMPORTANT

1. You know the Uniform Regulations.
2. You know the orders relative to saluting.
3. Failure to observe Uniform Regulations and the usual military courtesies may result in curtailing your stay in Paris or in disciplinary measures.
4. Look upon the Military Police as your friends. Ask them for information relative to railway and other stations.
5. The Military Police are required to be courteous and discourtesy on their part should be reported to the Provost Marshal, No. 10 Rue St. Anne.
6. Remember that the Military Police speak with authority from the Commanding General. The Military Police are required to perform certain duties that involve, at times, the questioning of officers. The Military Police are entitled to the same courteous treatment that they are required to accord others. The Military Police are ordered to report instances where they are not accorded such treatment.
7. The Military Police have been ordered to take the names and report all ranks, including Militarized Civilians, who permit themselves to be solicited on the streets.
8. The Provost Marshal has been directed to provide a place where slovenly dressed officers and enlisted men may be taken for the purpose of cleaning themselves. They will be detained until this has been accomplished.

By command of Brigadier-General Harris:
L. S. EDWARDS,
Adjutant General.

C. P. P. A. E. F.—3741—4-21-19—300M

AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES
HEADQUARTERS, DISTRICT OF PARIS

IMPORTANT

1. You know the Uniform Regulations.
2. You know the orders relative to saluting.
3. Failure to observe Uniform Regulations and the usual military courtesies may result in curtailing your stay in Paris or in disciplinary measures.
4. Look upon the Military Police as your friends. Ask them for information relative to railway and other stations.
5. The Military Police are required to be courteous and discourtesy on their part should be reported to the Provost Marshal, No. 10 Rue St. Anne.
6. Remember that the Military Police speak with authority from the Commanding General. The Military Police are required to perform certain duties that involve, at times, the questioning of officers. The Military Police are entitled to the same courteous treatment that they are required to accord others. The Military Police are ordered to report instances where they are not accorded such treatment.
7. The Military Police have been ordered to take the names and report all ranks, including Militarized Civilians, who permit themselves to be solicited on the streets.
8. The Provost Marshal has been directed to provide a place where slovenly dressed officers and enlisted men may be taken for the purpose of cleaning themselves. They will be detained until this has been accomplished.

By command of Brigadier-General Harris:
L. S. EDWARDS,
Adjutant General.

C. P. P. A. E. F.—3741—4-21-19—300M